(2) The following section is substituted for section 53 of the Principal Act:

“Opening of public road for establishment of underground electronic communications infrastructure.

53.—(1) A network operator shall not commence or carry out or cause to be commenced or carried out any roadworks unless—

[No. 2.] *Communications Regulation (Premium [2010.]
Rate Services and Electronic Communications Infrastructure) Act 2010.*

(II) in the case of any regional or local road, the road authority, in whose functional area the operator proposes to carry out the roadworks,

(4) Where electronic communications infrastructure and any associated physical infrastructure is replaced or improved by a network operator in the course of relocation due to road improvement, the authority concerned shall pay only the costs directly attributable to work done to electronic communications infrastructure and any associated physical infrastructure as a result of roadworks which would have been incurred if the electronic communications infrastructure and any associated physical infrastructure existing immediately before the road improvement had been relocated.

(5) A network operator shall be responsible to an authority for any costs incurred by the authority where the network operator fails to carry out the relocation of its electronic communications infrastructure in a safe, expeditious and efficient manner.

Emergency directions — termination of electronic communications services.

22.—(1) The Commission may, in the case of the termination of an electronic communications service affecting a substantial number of users, issue an emergency direction to an undertaking—

(b) providing wholesale access to carrier pre-selection and single billing wholesale line rental in the relevant market, to reconfigure the switching in respect of the wholesale service used directly or indirectly by another undertaking providing the retail service in order to minimise disruption to those users and to provide access to emergency services, or

(c) that is directly or indirectly a wholesale provider of another undertaking that has caused the termination of the electronic communications service, whose network is necessary for the provision of an electronic communications service to users, to take whatever technical steps are required to provide a network connection in order to minimise disruption to those users and to provide access to emergency services, without first having to consult interested parties. The first-mentioned undertaking shall comply with the emergency direction issued to it.

(2) Where an undertaking fails to comply with an emergency direction the Commission may make an application to the High Court for an order directing compliance with the emergency direction and the Court may make such order as it sees fit.
