EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Instrument and does not purport to be a legal interpretation.)

These Regulations set out the functions of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in relation to maintaining registers of coal bagging operators and solid fuel suppliers for the purpose of ensuring compliance with the environmental parameters for bituminous coal set out in the Air Pollution Act (Marketing, Sale, Distribution and Burning of Specified Fuels) Regulations 2012 (S.I. No. 326 of 2012).

S.I. No. 326 of 2012 requires that bituminous coal placed on the market for residential heating must have a sulphur content no greater than 0.7% by weight.

Bagging operators and solid fuel suppliers must be registered with the EPA. Bagging operators must register each year and solid fuel suppliers must register every two years. In order to register, an applicant must first demonstrate that their bituminous coal product is compliant with the 0.7% maximum sulphur content limit. The EPA may refuse or revoke a registration in cases where the Agency is not satisfied that a bagging operator or solid fuel supplier has demonstrated compliance.
